

Loftus Peak Global Change Portfolio

Global Change. Listed Investments. Daily Liquidity.

Monthly Investor Letter
December 2016

The Loftus Peak Global Change Portfolio invests in listed disruptive businesses globally. The portfolio provides geographical and sectoral diversification which lowers the concentration risk inherent in the typical Australian portfolio, with its heavy skew toward banks, resources and the Australian dollar.

Review & Outlook

The Fund manager estimated return gross* of fees was +2.47%, which was -2.18% below the benchmark (MSCI AC World Net Total Return Index in Australian dollars). The benchmark returned +4.65% for the month.

The markets continued their post-Trump jig, with optimism around the likelihood of a better deal on taxes, as well as job creation in traditional industries like coal and car-making, which pushed many of the beaten-down index companies like Exxon and GM into a solid rally. This re-rating seems well-judged by the markets, but is unlikely to translate into a sustainable improvement in these businesses - no amount of playing-field tilt will change the fact that they are generally less efficient than their newly-enabled disruptive competitors. This is the reason the Loftus Peak thematic has been outperforming over the past two years, as seen in the performance table below.

The Australian dollar continued its depreciation against the US greenback, falling a further 2.5% this month and helping the Portfolio.

*Manager estimated returns. The Portfolio Benchmark is the MSCI ACWI (net) (as expressed in AUD from Bloomberg). Portfolio Inception date is 30/06/14. All returns are shown to two decimal places. ## Portfolio Contributors and Detractors

Machine-learning group Nvidia was again strong, adding 1.04% to the value of the Fund, as markets began to fully appreciate the enormous head start the company has opened up over competitors. We like Nvidia not only for the technology but also for the new business opportunities it opens in driverless cars and data centres, the latter of which will be required in businesses from retail to border security.

Apple and Alphabet were also solid.

Negative contributions were recorded from Twitter, which is the subject of constant takeover rumours. The company's value lies in the trove of data around its users' interests, which should be an advertising bonanza that is unlocked over time. Alibaba was weak on sabre-rattling about China.

Top Five Holdings
Apple	12.7%

About Loftus Peak

Loftus Peak is a global fund manager with a focus on investing in listed disruptive businesses. Our team's extensive experience of successfully investing in disruptive businesses brings significant discipline to the investment process.

The Fund, which includes large capitalisation names like Apple, Google and Alibaba, is constructed on the basis of strict criteria, giving investors exposure to some of the best and fastest-growing companies in the world, at carefully determined valuations. This kind of geographical and sectoral diversification lowers the concentration risk inherent in the typical Australian portfolio, with its heavy skew toward banks, resources and the Australian dollar.

We believe self-managed super funds, and investors generally, want a professionally-managed portfolio that gives them access to these important secular trends.
