January 2023 Update

Founded in 2014, Loftus Peak is a global fund manager with a focus on investment in listed disruptive businesses. Our extensive experience means we bring significant discipline to the process. Our Australian Securities Exchange listed Fund (ASX code: LPGD) comprises some of the best and fastest-growing companies in the world – companies that we believe are driving change across all industries globally, constructed on the basis of strict criteria and included at carefully determined valuations. Holdings include large capitalisation names like Apple and Google (Alphabet) as well as many others that we expect to be household names in the future, such as Advanced Micro Devices and Qualcomm. This approach to investment across a wide range of global industries lowers the concentration risk inherent in the typical Australian portfolio, with its heavy skew toward banks, resources and the Australian dollar.

Review and Performance

January saw a significant rebound in equity markets following December's sell-off. The Fund gained +11.3% net-of-fees, almost reversing last month's loss of -11.3%. January's outperformance relative to the MSCI All Countries World Index (net) as expressed in AUD from Bloomberg was +7.6%.

Markets digested further data points indicating cooling inflation. The United States December CPI print recorded the annual inflation rate at 6.5% - down from 7.1% in November. Monthly CPI was negative for the first time since early 2020 at -0.1% as energy prices normalised and food price growth slowed. December's employment figures were also stronger than expected - a sign the US economy is holding up well - which would usually give more credence to further rate hikes by the Fed if it weren't for wage growth coming in below expectations.

Contributors and Detractors to Return

The Fund's investments performed well across the board. By weight, 84% of the Fund's holdings produced positive returns for the month, including all of the Fund's semiconductor names. Qualcomm – the largest position - was the best performer for the month, adding +2.4% to the Fund's value. Advanced Micro Devices, Nvidia, ON Semiconductor and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company added a combined +2.5%. This was in part helped by solid earnings from TSMC, a bellwether for the semiconductor industry, with the company guiding to positive revenue growth in 2023 versus market expectations of a decline.

Roku contributed +1.4% as it rose over +40% during the month. Another better-than-expected earnings result from fellow streamer Netflix (the Fund's 4th largest contributor for the month at +1.1%) helped to assuage fears about the long-term opportunity in streaming. While Roku is benefiting from the ameliorating macro and more positive sentiment for higher investment risk, we think the more important driver of performance going forward will be the streaming landscape itself - Warner Bros. Discovery's decision to license premium content to The Roku Channel is a sign of things to come for subscale, unprofitable streaming services.

Against the backdrop of slowing top line growth and ballooning expenses, Amazon, Google and Microsoft were under pressure to announce layoffs. They inevitably succumbed and were rewarded by the market for doing so – Amazon climbed over +20% during the month (contributing +1.4%). Latin American e-commerce giant Mercado Libre also experienced strong growth with the stock price up over +39% during the month.

Exit Price (in AUD)	2.5698

The largest detractors for the month were Linde (-11bps), John Deere (-8bps), and CrowdStrike (-6bps). Linde, John Deere and Walmart (-4bps) hit near all-time highs in late November. These companies while not traditionally associated with disruption are remaking themselves for the digital world. With strong balance sheets and cash flows they performed well in the harsh interest rate environment of 2022.

The Australian dollar appreciated +3.9% against the US dollar over the month, which meant the value of the Fund's US dollar positions decreased. As at 31 January 2023, the Fund carried a foreign currency exposure of 99.1%.

Selected Contributors and Detractors

Portfolio Construction

At January month end, the Fund was 92.3% invested in 30 holdings with the balance in cash exposure. The Fund has a high exposure to large capitalisation names which are highly cash generative with strong balance sheets. Focusing on high quality companies helps the Fund to withstand difficult periods in the market and drive strong, long-term outcomes for investors.
